

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR,

TRANSMITTING

Final report of the Hot Springs Commissioners, with accompanying schedules.

JANUARY 6, 1880.—Referred to the Committee on Public Lands and ordered to be printed, with accompanying documents.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 5, 1880.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of the final report of the Hot Springs Commissioners, together with schedules showing the names of the parties in whose favor awards were made; number and valuation of lots; a list of persons to whom certificates were issued for property condemned; and also a copy of a communication filed with the Commissioners on the 10th of December, 1879, and letter from chairman transmitting the same.

The communication referred to above contains certain charges against the chief clerk of the Commission, and questions the fairness of the awards made in several cases.

As the department has not the power to compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of papers, nor the means at its disposal to conduct an investigation into the charges made, I have deemed it my duty to lay the matter before your honorable body for such action as may be judged advisable.

Under existing law no appeal from the decision of the Commission can be entertained by the department, the act of March 3, 1877, having clothed the Commissioners with authority to finally determine the right of each claimant or occupant at Hot Springs to purchase the land claimed or occupied by them.

It is made the duty of the Secretary of the Interior, within thirty days after the Commissioners shall have filed their report and map, to instruct the United States land officers at Little Rock (Arkansas) land district to allow said lands to be entered as provided by law.

The time within which the instructions are to be forwarded to the local land office will expire January 14, 1880.

Under the 8th section of the act of March 3, 1877, the Commissioners issued certificates for property condemned to the amount of $74,696.

No provision has been made for the payment of these certificates. It has been suggested that they be made receivable in payment for the lands at Hot Springs; and I commend this suggestion to the consideration of Congress.

Very respectfully,

C. SCHURZ, Secretary.

The Hon. the PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

Report of the Hot Springs Commission.

OFFICE OF HOT SPRINGS COMMISSION,
Hot Springs, Ark., December 11, 1879.

SIR: The Commissioners appointed under the acts of Congress of 1877 and 1878, relative to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, respectfully report that the claims for the right to purchase land have all been adjudicated, the records made up, the appraisements have been made, the surveys have been completed, and the unreserved land laid out as a town. Certificates for condemned buildings and for the right of the claimants to purchase have been made out, and but few remain to be delivered. The obstructions have been removed from the streets and the permanent reservation and the maps provided for have been prepared, and all the work contemplated by law has been completed. The following papers, documents, records, maps, and plats are filed with the Secretary of the Interior, to wit:

1st. All of the petitions filed with the Commission for the right to purchase land and for condemned buildings, with the testimony offered by the claimants in the several claims and the findings of the Commission.

2d. A record of all the proceedings of the Commission, which includes all the orders and findings made by the Commission in the several claims; the Commission holding it to be more advisable to put their findings in this form than in the shape of loose papers in each petition or claim. This record is made up in two large record-books.

3d. A docket of all the petitions or claims filed, kept in the usual style of court dockets, furnishing a reference to the orders of the Commission in each claim. These claims were docketed and numbered in the order of filing.

4th. A schedule, as provided by law, showing the name of each claimant and of each lot or parcel of land, the appraised value thereof, and numbers to correspond with such claim upon the map.

5th. Appraisalment books, containing the valuation of each lot or tract of land in the reservation remaining to be sold and of the improvements thereon.

6th. A map of the entire reservation of four sections, as provided by law. This map is accompanied by maps of the several quarter sections in the reservation which show the alignment of the streets by distances, angles, and curves, the dimensions and areas of lots, the position of monuments, and other details.

The map of the entire reservation is on the scale of 200 feet to the inch, and the data could not all be put upon it for lack of space. The divisional maps are on a scale of 100 feet to the inch, which is entirely too large for a general map.

These accompanying maps are made a part of the principal map, and contain all the data required by law in addition to those on the principal map.

Reference is made to the report of Col. A. P. Robinson, the engineer of the Commission, for more particular details upon this subject.

Much difficulty was experienced in making the proper surveys on account of irregularities in the surface and equally great irregularities in the lines of claims and existing streets, which the law required to be observed as far as possible. A more regular plan for both streets and lots might have been adopted but for the recognition in a large measure of the previously existing condition of the town.

7th. Maps in sections, showing the several claims as nearly as possible as originally made by the claimants. These claims were imperfectly described in the petitions, and the plats filed with them were inaccurately drawn in many instances, but with sufficient certainty to enable the Commission by the aid of personal inspection, by surveys, and by testimony, to fix their true location upon the ground.

It was impossible to put these claims upon the general map.

The number of certificates issued for the right to purchase land is 647. These certificates have been issued from books provided for that purpose with stubs, upon which, in addition to the substance of the matter contained in the certificate, is a receipt from the claimant or his agent or attorney.

The number of certificates for condemned buildings is 172, and the amount covered by them is the sum of $74,696. These certificates were issued from books provided for the purpose, and with proper stubs showing the substance of the certificate, and containing a receipt of the person to whom issued or his agent or attorney; a list of these certificates is filed with this report.

The entire amount of land laid off into blocks and lots as a town is 1,270 acres; of these, 699.81 acres have been awarded to claimants.

A block (No. 114) containing 3.62 acres has been set apart as a site for the public building of Garland County.

The Hot Springs Mountain Reservation contains 264.93 acres. The remainder of the four sections consists of hills and mountains, and is almost entirely unfit for building and occupation, upon which streets could be constructed only with great difficulty and expense. These mountains are largely covered with trees, being unoccupied, and are for the most part unclaimed. They have not been adjudicated to any one, and are of that class of lands which remain under the law to be sold at public auction. They have been laid off into large lots, not divided by streets, and should be reserved as public parks.

The appraisement has been made at what the Commission believe to be considerably less than the actual value of the land. The mountain districts are laid off in large tracts, and have been appraised at such a rate as for the present to prevent their sale, with a view to their reservation as public parks by act of Congress.

The appropriations made for the use of the Commission during the present year amount to $27,500; the expenditures, to $27,500; also $1,808, the condemned-building fund.

The report of the disbursing officer, Albert O. Morgan, esq., hereto appended, shows in detail the receipts and expenditures of the Commission.

In the condemnation and removal of buildings, the Commission had no funds with which to make removals and no place to which to remove them. The condemned buildings were for the most part put up for sale at public auction as a means of removal and sold to the highest bidder.

These sales brought to the Commission the sum of $1,811.77, and a detailed statement of them is recorded in the record-books of the Commission. A large portion of this sum has been expended in the employment of a party, under the direction of the engineer, in causing the removal of buildings, fences, and other obstructions, and determining for claimants their lines upon the streets.

The residents of the place have conformed to the orders of the Commission by removing their fences and buildings not condemned from the streets and reservation without resistance or ill-will. Immediately after the organization of the Commission a public notice was given cautioning all persons against building, lest their structures might be placed in the streets and public places which might be laid out.

The Commission deem it advisable to recommend that an appropriation be made to pay off the certificates issued for condemned buildings, or, in case this cannot be done, that they be made receivable at the land office at Little Rock in payment for lots to be sold in the Hot Springs Reservation. It is obvious that these certificates for condemned buildings are promises, on the part of the government, to pay the settlers for the losses caused by a total or partial destruction of their buildings of a highly equitable nature.

The Commission further recommend that the proceeds of the sales of lots be appropriated by law to the improvement of the permanent reservation and the streets of the town adjoining at the earliest practicable day. These improvements are greatly needed, and, if judiciously made, will add greatly to the value of the property of the United States, as well as that of individuals in this place.

The Commission also recommend a reservation by Congress from sale of all the land included in the blocks covering the mountains. These lands are not needed for any purpose but as public grounds or parks, covered by shade-trees. Sites for school-houses should be reserved in different portions of the town. There are many unclaimed lots in convenient places which will furnish ample and convenient sites for school-houses. It would not be improper also to set apart certain lots for sites for churches. The religious organizations here are very poor and feeble, and a little aid to them would be of lasting benefit to this community.

The Secretary of the Interior has already placed the care of the lands unclaimed in the hands of the superintendent of the reservation, and has given him instructions. We have only to add that nothing could be more important to the interests of the residents here and of the United States than to give the superintendent the fullest powers to prevent trespass and injury to lands and timber. It might not be improper to set apart a tract of land for the temporary residence, without charge, of certain poor persons who are unable to pay for boarding or baths. This might be done under direction of the superintendent.

We also recommend that photolithographic copies of the maps be made for the use of the land-office at Little Rock and of the residents of Hot Springs.

Situated upon Valley street, and upon the Hot Springs Mountain Reservation, there was a large number of houses which had been condemned in a general order on June 30, 1877. This order was practically annulled by the subsequent action of the Commission, they having decided that a special condemnation should be had under each petition. On the night of the 5th day of March, 1878, these buildings were destroyed by fire.

All these buildings were subject to condemnation and removal. Testimony had been taken as to their ownership and value prior to their destruction, which is preserved with the petitions on file.

These buildings were not specially condemned on account of the constant occupation of the Commission in taking testimony before and up to the time of the fire.

Had these buildings remained, they would have been condemned and certificates of their value issued; but being burned, the Commission held it not to be within their power to issue certificates for them.

Our action in these cases is a matter of record, wherein it appears that the claims for the value of these buildings were rejected for the sole reason that they were burned.

We invite the attention of the Secretary of the Interior to the testimony and the record in these cases, and we recommend that suitable legislation be had, based thereon, giving to the sufferers by the fire, who owned these buildings, some compensation or other proper relief in the premises.

Respectfully,

AARON H. CRAGIN.

ENGINEER'S OFFICE, HOT SPRINGS COMMISSION,
December 11, 1879.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to report to you the completion of the surveys of this reservation, and to submit to you the accompanying plans:

First. A general plan, on a scale of 200 feet to 1 inch, showing the laying out of the streets, avenues, alleys, blocks, and lots. The blocks are numbered from No. 1 to 194, inclusive, and the lots are numbered separately in each block.

Second. A series of sixteen divisional plans, on a scale of 100 feet to 1 inch, each plan representing one-sixteenth part of the reservation. These divisions are distinguished by letters, and are indicated on the general plan by corresponding letters and boundaries. Upon these are shown all the dimensions of streets, avenues, alleys, blocks, and lots, all curves and angles, the position of all monuments, &c., it being impracticable to delineate all the necessary detail upon the general plan.

The lots not awarded to claimants are distinguished by being colored, except the mountain blocks deemed impracticable for streets and blocks. These are left uncolored, as are also the lots granted to claimants.

Third. A series of sixteen divisional plans, on the same scale, and lettered to correspond with the previous series, exhibiting the various claims filed with the Commission, being in exact accordance with the plans and descriptions of the claimants, and laid down as nearly as possible in the position indicated by them. They are of an infinite variety of shapes and sizes, often several covering the same ground, and, where not covering it in toto, overlapping and conflicting. Dividing lines, about which, in fact, there were no conflicts between adjacent claimants, were described by different courses and distances. Some of the claims had no courses described. Many, where there was an affectation of precision, described impossible pieces. Nearly all were bounded by their neighbors, and these in their turn by theirs, and few had any initial point by which it could be determined in what part of a division they were situated. A majority of them began at a corner of the piece described and ended at the place of beginning. As far as possible these conflicting lines and vague and incorrect claims have been adjusted by surveys during the past summer, having reference to fences, buildings, and other evidences of improvement. The adjustment of these claims has been a most difficult and vexatious task, and has consumed more time of the engineering force than all the rest of their duties.

This reservation, although nominally two miles square by sectional numbers, contains but 2,529.10 acres. From the northeast to the southwest it is divided by a range of precipitous mountains known as the North Mountain, and Hot Springs Mountain in the northeast portion, and as West Mountain in the southwest portion. This range is divided near the center of the reservation by a deep gorge, through which run the waters of the Hot Springs Creek. The northwest corner of the reservation is occupied by Sugar-loaf Mountain. All the area between the last named and the range before described and all the available area south of this range to the south line of the reservation has been laid out in streets, avenues, blocks, and lots. The gorge between the mountains before referred to is the only possible thoroughfare between these two sections.

All the avenues and streets have been laid out with reference to the topography of the site, and but a few present any long straight lines, but the result is a system which can be graded and embellished at a comparatively small cost, while a more regular plan regardless of topography is unfitted for the site, and would have entailed an expense which would preclude any great improvement for years.

It has been deemed an important element in the plan that the two main water channels of the reserve, viz: Hot Springs Creek and Gum Spring Creek, should be so absorbed by the streets as to be always under the control of the government or of the municipal authorities, in order to prevent their defilement. Even with the present population, there are times when during the dry summer months they become mere open sewers through the center of the town, offensive in the highest degree and detrimental to health.

A considerable portion of the city south of the mountains being more particularly a business district, that part, with the exception of Grand and Central avenues, has been laid out with right lines and angles, while that portion north of the mountain, being rural in its character and more particularly calculated for residences, has been generally laid out with curves, not by any fixed design, but governed entirely by its topography, thus admitting of improvement and embellishment at a minimum of cost, without at all impairing its beauty when settled and occupied.

The lines shown in the general plan upon the mountain blocks are simply designed to suggest the location of possible carriage roads which may be constructed for drives at some future day, and those marked "Cañon st." and "Mountain st." extending from Central avenue to the northeast end of the summit of West Mountain, although not practicable as streets, have been laid down as bridle roads or as lines, on either of which an inclined railway elevator for attaining the top of the mountain may be constructed.

All corners, angles, and points of curves have been defined by iron monuments, of which 1,050 have been used. At all the crossings of the division lines, and at all the intersections of these lines with the exterior lines of the reservation and with main avenues, as well as at all the angles of the line inclosing the permanent reserve, granite monuments have been placed, on which are inscribed letters and figures indicating the lines they define. Ninety of these have been used. There are, in the aggregate, 49.96 linear miles of streets, avenues, and alleys of various widths, as follows:

	Feet.
150 feet in width .....	450
132 feet in width .....	3, 089
125 feet in width .....	20, 769

It is to be regretted that the provisions of the law creating this Commission were such as in your judgment to compel you to adopt a lot system, adhering, with all possible strictness, to the lines of claimants. This has, in many cases, produced an irregularity which is objectionable, but under your construction of the law it is unavoidable. Where claim lines did not prevent, a system as regular as the shape of the blocks would permit has been adopted.

I cannot close this report without referring to the zeal and ability with which I have been sustained by my principal assistants, Mr. Charles B. Fisher and Mr. Samuel Hamblin.

I am, your most obedient servant,

A. P. ROBINSON,
Chief Engineer.

Hons. A. H. CRAGIN, JOHN COBURN, M. L. STEARNS, Commissioners.

NEW YORK, December 30, 1879.

DEAR SIR: I inclose herewith a statement of John J. Sumpter and others, presented to the Hot Springs Commission on the 10th instant. When this communication was received the Commission was very busily engaged in preparing their report, maps, schedule, appraisals, findings, and other matters for transmittal to your department, and in preparing and issuing certificates and in doing other detail work. The commission decided that this was not a paper to be filed with the testimony in the Sumpter claim, but rather to be presented to the Interior Department as a miscellaneous paper.

Our first idea was to investigate the allegation in this statement in relation to our clerk; but after fully estimating the work of the commission that remained to be done I found it was absolutely impossible to do this and finish our work. Such an investigation in the then condition of our work, and the limited time for its completion, involved a failure to perform the duties of the commission, as required by law. It was only by the greatest exertions, and the employment of extra force, and by working Sunday and nights, that we were able to complete the work by midnight on the last day of our term, December 15, 1879.

The circumstances in relation to the presentation of this statement are peculiar. After the decision in the Sumpter claim, John J. Sumpter made great efforts to have the case reopened, and to have that part of decision in the Gaines claim, awarding said Gaines certain lots that were also embraced in the Sumpter claim, reversed, and to have the same awarded to the Sumpters. He intimated to me more than once that if this was not done, and this part of their claim allowed them, he should have his attorney prepare a statement which would embarrass the commission; that he did not wish to do this, and would not do it if the decision could be changed and they allowed the lots in question. He said he was desperate, and was bound to attempt, by any means in his power, to gain what he considered his right. When he finally presented this statement to the commission he remarked that he had no charges to make against the commission, and that if their claim was allowed he wanted the privilege of withdrawing the statement.

In making the decisions in the Sumpter and Gaines claims, I was governed by what I considered the law and evidence in the cases, and had no knowledge of the matters and things alleged in said statement; and the other members of the board, I have no doubt, had no knowledge thereof.

Respectfully, yours,

A. H. CRAGIN.

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Hot Springs, Ark., December, 1879.

In the matter of the claim of Elizabeth Sumpter, William Sumpter, and John J. Sumpter, numbered 737, consolidated with the claim of Wm. H. Gains and Maria Gains, numbered 784; before the Hot Springs Commissioners.

Now come Elizabeth Sumpter, William Sumpter, and John J. Sumpter, the above petitioners, and state that lots numbered 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16, in block numbered 86, as mapped out, platted, and laid off by the Hot Springs Commissioners, are situated in the original Hot Springs Reservation.

That in the year 1844 James Sumpter, husband of petitioner Elizabeth, and father of petitioners William and John J. Sumpter, purchased the possession of the land embracing said lots from one Wright, who had improvements on, and an occupancy of, the same. That he thereafter until his death, in September, 1861, possessed and occupied them in good faith, making other valuable improvements. That after his death petitioner Elizabeth and her children occupied them until July, 1864, when all of their improvements being destroyed by fire, and said property being situate between the raiding or scouting parties of the Federal and Confederate armies, she abandoned it temporarily, but with a view of returning and occupying it so soon as these difficulties should cease. That in 1865 the said petitioners returned in pursuance of their intent, which had never been abandoned, and occupied said lots, inclosing them and using them as the front yard of houses built by them for use in the immediate rear thereof, and passing over and through them constantly and daily to and from their houses, one of which was a hotel, to the only public road or street then in the Hot Springs Valley, upon which their said houses fronted. That they continued so to occupy them until and after the 24th day of April, 1876, and until after the government receiver, A. O. Morgan, took possession of and rented out a portion thereof, the said petitioners having first applied to and rented the same from him and paid him $1,000 therefor, together with other lands. That said Morgan, in violation of the tenancy of said petitioners, and after he had received said money as rent therefor, rented four of said lots to other persons. That they, the petitioners, on the 24th day of April, 1876, and prior thereto, had improvements upon all of said lots, within the spirit and meaning of the act of Congress entitled "An act in relation to the Hot Springs Reservation," of the State of Arkansas, approved March 3, 1877, and were bona-fide occupants of the same; and that no other person, save James Sumpter's vendors, ever had any improvements upon, or occupancy of, said lots, within the sense of said act or otherwise. That in October, 1877, the said petitioners Elizabeth, William, and John J. Sumpter, under the provisions of said act, filed their said petition 737, accompanied with a map, before the said Hot Springs Commissioners, wherein they described, with other land claimed by them, the said lots, and prayed of said commission a right to purchase them from the United States, by reason of improvement and occupancy, under and within the provision of said act. That shortly thereafter Wm. H. Gaines, and Maria Gaines, his wife, who, as the testimony shows, never invested a dollar in the way of improvement upon said lots or any of them, filed their petition numbered 784, before said commissioners, wherein they pray of said commission an award to them of the right to purchase the land embraced in said lots, together with a very large quantity of land situated in the original reservation of Hot Springs, Ark., embracing a number of minor claims, and of other lots claimed by said Sumpters. That the only foundation of said claim by said Gaines and wife was a fraudulent certificate which was procured by said Gaines in favor of the heirs of Ludoncies Belding, and which was introduced in evidence, was obtained by foul practices and upon the representation of said Gaines to the Secretary of the Interior that he would never demand a patent upon said certificate. That after the filing of said petition, said claims were, by order of said commission, consolidated. That the evidence in support of them, respectively, was thereafter introduced, and showed, in support of the petition of the said Sumpters, their use of said lots and the character of their improvements thereon, together with their long occupancy thereof. That the evidence in behalf of said Gaines and wife showed the said certificate of entry to have been obtained upon the representations aforesaid; a suit by him and the Belding heirs, based upon said "certificate of entry" against said James Sumpter, and a compromise of said suit upon an agreement between him and the said Sumpter upon a mere nominal rent until the courts should pass upon validity of said certificate, after which, if said certificate should be held invalid, the right of possession should remain in said Sumpter, otherwise in said Gaines and Beldings.

Petitioners, Elizabeth, William, and John J. Sumpter, say that the evidence on file in said cases shows the above facts to be conclusively true, and shows further that in 1866, after the said petitioners, Elizabeth, William, and John J. Sumpter, had taken the occupancy and use of said lots, and inclosed the same, the said Gaines and Beldings instituted in the Hot Springs circuit court actions of unlawful detainer and forcible entry and unlawful detainer against said Elizabeth and William Sumpter, wherein they charged and acknowledged the possession of said lots and land to be in said Elizabeth and William; that said suits were by agreement between the attorney of said Gaines and Beldings, Judge Walkins, and the attorney of said Elizabeth and William, H. H. Garland, present United States Senator from the State of Arkansas, continued with consent of the respective parties until such times as the validity of said certificate should be finally passed upon, when, if the same should be held valid, judgment should go in favor of said Gaines and Beldings, otherwise in favor of said Elizabeth and William Sumpter, in whom the right of possession and occupancy was as between the parties to continue; the said suits have been continued from that date and never tried, and that said Sumpters have ever since been the occupants of said lots.

And petitioners further say, that after all the evidence in said cases was introduced and after the year in which the commissioners' work was to have been done had passed, William Nelson, an officer with the rank of major in the United States Army, retired, and residing in Hot Springs, Arkansas, approached petitioners John and William, and told them that A. O. Morgan was to act as clerk to said commissioners upon their return to resume their duties, and that the object of his appointment was a secret, and cautious representations through him of their interest and motives touching their official action, in which it would not be safe for them to act openly; and further stated that if they, the Sumpters, would convey one hundred front feet of the front part of their claim the whole of their claim would be allowed. That he had letters from said Morgan authorizing him to make such arrangements, and assuring him that the action of said commissioners would in that behalf be controlled by him, the said Morgan; that after some days of delay and negotiation the said Nelson agreed to accept fifty front feet of said claim, running back to the section line between sections 32 and 33, in township 2 south of range 19 west. That said Sumpters agreed to give this and executed to said Nelson a deed therefor in his own name, the said Nelson telling them that he was acting in the matter under the instructions of said Morgan. That after said deed was executed the said Nelson told said Sumpters that said Morgan would be at Hot Springs in a few days, and that he was instructed to wait till his arrival; that upon the arrival of said Morgan said Nelson came to said Sumpters, told them that Morgan would do nothing for them unless they deeded to him one-half of their claim, and that he, Nelson, considering said demand unreasonable, had used harsh language toward the said Morgan in consequence thereof; in consequence of which they had fallen out and that said Nelson assured the said Sumpters that he had no interest whatever in the matter, but merely desired to see them get their property on the best terms they could, knowing that they were entitled to the same, but that a portion thereof would be exacted from them as the condition of granting the prayer of their petition. That said Nelson told the Sumpters that Morgan's demand for one-half of the land included in their claim was unreasonable, and they then refused to give the same.

That afterwards, during the summer of 1879, ex-United States Senator Powell Clayton came to Hot Springs at different times and at different times asked petitioner John J. Sumpter if petitioners had arranged their affairs in relation to their claim before the commissioners, and advised him to hold no further conversation with Major Nelson; told him that petitioners would have to give up one-half of the front portion of their claim embracing said lots to get the balance. That said John J. offered said Clayton one-third thereof. Said Clayton refused the offer, saying that said Gaines would do better than that. That afterwards said Clayton told said John J. to go to said Morgan and negotiate with him, but not to talk any more with said Nelson. That at one of these numerous conversations, said Clayton offered to pay the government for the whole of the front portion of said claim and insure the award to said Sumpters of the whole of their claim if they would convey to him one-half of said front portion; that said Clayton during these conversations spoke of a strip of ground occupied with houses lying between Central avenue and Hot Springs Creek, which had been condemned by the said commissioners, or so published, and the said Clayton then told said petitioner John J. that said condemnation would be reversed, and the right to purchase the land awarded to the occupants thereof if trades could be made, and requested and authorized said John J. to purchase for him all claims of occupants upon said strip that he could for fifteen dollars per front foot. This conversation occurred during the summer of 1879; that there were different conversations between said John J. and said Clayton in relation to this matter in and during said summer. That notice was given to the occupant of said strip of ground to remove their buildings off the same by the 31st day of October, 1879. That said order and decision was thereafter reversed, but not until after many sales and transfers of property thereon had been made, the said John J., however, not having made any purchases, feeling that the same would be wrong. That upon and after the advice of said Clayton, the said John J. had divers conversations with the said A. O. Morgan in reference to the claim of said Sumpters, and the amount thereof which they would have to sacrifice to get the same allowed.

That said Morgan demanded of the petitioners a conveyance of one half of the front portion of said claim, embracing said lots, and offered to insure to them an award by said commissioners of the right to purchase the same if said conveyance was executed; that he finally offered to pay the government for the whole front portion of said claim and insure an allowance of said claim by said commissioners if the petitioners would convey as aforesaid, and told said John J. that this was better than they would ever do again, and that the claim of said Sumpters was much stronger and much better supported by evidence than that of Gaines and wife, and he would rather trade with Sumpters than Gaines, but that said Gaines would give one-half as the consideration of the award. And the said Morgan further stated to said John J. that he had been present at the examination of the testimony by said commissioners when they were in the East, and that he knew what course they intended pursuing and that the Sumpters would have to give up half of said front or lose the same; that said Major Nelson also repeatedly during this time advised said John J. and William to make the best trade they could with said Morgan, assuring them that unless they did make such trade they would be wronged and their property taken from them; that said Sumpters, knowing that said Gaines had no claim within the spirit, letter, or equity of said act, notwithstanding the statements of said Morgan, Clayton, and Nelson, the last of whom they regarded as their friend, but that said commission could not have the hardihood to deprive them of their rights, either for the benefit of said Gaines or themselves, under cover of said Gaines claim, and although they were willing to give something, refused to surrender half of their rights, preferring rather to lose the whole.

That there being upon the front portion of said Sumpters claim, one lot, touching which there was a plausible controversy against them, and touching which the evidence was somewhat evenly balanced, they, the Sumpters, at the solicitation of said Morgan, and with a view, among other things, to test his power to control said commission, and to ascertain definitely whether said commissioners, or a majority of them, recognized his contracts, made a conveyance in secret trust for the benefit of said Morgan or of said commissioners, or of both Morgan and said commissioners, to a third party—whose name, with unquestioned proof thereof, is ready to be tendered—of the north half of said lot, and that they, thereupon, found that his contracts were recognized, for the said commission awarded said lot to petitioners Sumpter.

And petitioners say that William H. Gaines and wife employed M. W. Benjamin and W. W. Wilshire to present their said claim to said commission, and that after the appointment of the said Morgan as clerk to said commission with the ultimate views of subserving their ends as aforesaid, the said Gaines in the month of June, 1879, after telling to certain persons mixed up in the trafficking of said Morgan, that he was going to Little Rock and settle if possible with his said attorneys on a money basis and get rid of them so that he might have his land and claim in a condition to deal therewith for the use of said Morgan and the commissioners, and thereby secure a favorable consideration of his said claim, went to Little Rock, settled with said attorneys at $6,500, procured from them a relinquishment and recession of the conveyance and agreement by which they were to have and receive one-half of the land that should be awarded to said Gaines and wife upon said petition; that the said Gaines thereafter returned and disposed of portions of the land claimed by him in accordance with said intent so expressed.

That the heirs of John C. Hale, being pressed through the same channel to make a conveyance of a large portion of their claim, did so, and that the same was allowed. That the land authorized by the said act to be located and set apart to Garland County for a county seat, was first located by the commission on block number 111 as mapped and platted by said commission, where it was extremely injurious to the property claimed by said Sumpters, and that thereafter, and before said location was made final, S. H. Still, a son-in-law of said Gaines and wife, one of the proprietors of the Arlington Hotel, approached W. J. Little, a son-in-law of petitioner Elizabeth, and brother-in-law to petitioners William and John J., and told him that if he would agree to give him $500 he would insure the removal of said location and a reversal of the decision of said commissioners in this behalf. That said Little agreed to pay said Still said sum if said removal was accomplished, and thereupon it was accomplished, and said county seat located back upon the mountain side, where it can never be of value to said Garland County or any one else. That before this the Sumpters had petitioned, pleaded, requested, and used all the moneyed influence at their command without avail.

That in the claim of Mary K. Cayce the land claimed embraced thirty lots as laid out by the commission; all of said land had been inclosed for a period of ten years, and the greater portion of it in cultivation, and had upon it a residence and out buildings; that said Casey is mother-in-law of petitioner, John J., who has the control and management of her claim; that said Clayton, when making his aforesaid demand, also demanded of said John a half interest in these lots, as the consideration of the allowance of said claim. The said Morgan also made the same demand, and offered to secure the award of this claim in full, and pay the government the price assessed upon the land, for said half interest after the said John had refused to give said half interest outright; told him that this was the best he would ever get, and that he would get more in this way than in any other; that said John refusing to do this, the commission afterwards awarded to the said Casey only fourteen of said lots; that, thereupon, said John J. agreed with said Morgan to give him one-half of all the lots, except one, that he would thereafter procure to be added to said award, and that very soon thereafter six lots were added thereto by said commission. That the said Sumpters refused to convey the one-half interest of the front portion of their claim, and that, true to the prediction of Clayton, Morgan, and Nelson, the commission awarded to said Gaines the said lots numbered 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, and 16, in block number 83, the same being decidedly the most valuable of said Sumpters' claim, and being one-half of the front thereof by admeasurement; that, thereupon, the said petitioner, John J., learning of this went to see said commissioners severally and talked with them about the matter, but did not tell Commissioners Steans and Coburn of the bargains and propositions offered him by said Morgan. Commissioner Coburn told said John that he was in favor of declaring said lots vacant, but that the award and decision was made by Commissioners Cragin and Steans, and that as between said Sumpters and Gaines said Sumpters had the right, and Gaines never had any shadow of right; Commissioner Steans told him that he was as a rule in favor of letting decision stand, but that inasmuch as the other commissioners had opened cases and reversed decision, he was willing that this case should be reopened. Commissioner Cragin told him that he was in favor of awarding all of said lots to the Sumpters, but had made a compromise decision, and would be glad to reopen the case and have all of said lots awarded to the Sumpters, feeling that they were entitled thereto; that prior to his calling upon said commissioners, John J. saw said Morgan and told him that he was satisfied Morgan could have the property awarded as he pleased, and that he, Sumpter, would go, if the matter stood thus, and tell the commissioners of his proposition and doings; that he, the said Sumpter, would not be robbed in any such manner. That said Morgan replied that said Sumpter might go and tell said commissioners as soon as he pleased, saying, "I have told them all about it." That afterwards when the said John, in a subsequent conversation with said Cragin, in his (Cragin's) room, at the Arlington Hotel, told him that he was dissatisfied and would if possible amend the proceedings of said commission by exposing, as far as he knew the actions, conduct, trading, and misdoings of the said Morgan, who claimed therein to represent the said commissioners. The said Cragin advised against it, saying, "Your interests are so great that you cannot afford to do so, as the property which has been awarded to the Sumpters is very valuable and will be imperiled thereby."

That when said Clayton was urging upon said John to give up half of the said front portion of said claim, the said John told him that he had agreed to give up fifty feet thereof, whereupon said Clayton replied that this was too little, that it had to go through "long division," and the shares would consequently be very small; and the petitioners, Elizabeth, William, and John, state it as a fact that there are many conveyances of the character above indicated made either directly to, or to persons named by, said A. O. Morgan, and that the decisions have uniformly, so far as the same have fallen within their observation, been, either by accident or understanding (petitioners hardly think by accident), in accordance with the stipulations, statements, and interest of the said Morgan.

I. And petitioners charge that the award of said lots to said Gaines and wife, by said commissioners, was influenced by fraud, as above indicated.

II. That said award is without evidence to support it and contrary to the letter and spirit of the law, and they state that they will not abide the same, but pray an appeal now from the decisions of said commissioners in said consolidated claims numbered 737 and 784, awarding said lots to said Gaines and wife and pray a revision of the same upon the evidence taken before said commissioners and preserved on the files thereof, and further pray that the wrongs and frauds herein charged and the connection of said commissioners therewith be investigated.
